Muster Cheers are Back—With a Gala Christmas Program

HERE IT IS . . .

The announcement you've been waiting for . . .

The Three Muster-Cheers . . . Community Christmas again . . . several hundred baskets to be filled to the brim for Mansfield's needy . . . the annual round-up of canned foods . . . AND . . .

The swellest Charity Ball and dog-gonedest biggest floor show you've ever seen in your life! Coliseum, Monday, Dec. 19. Four hours of dancing and the kind of entertainment you had last year at the biggest and best midnight Christmas show!

Wait a minute until we catch our breath and regain coherency . . .

The announcement is a bit late in coming this year, but that's because we've been working like a swarm of ants under the ground, getting things set for the Big Event.

The Three Muster-Cheers (The News-Journal, the American Legion and Warner Brothers theaters, in case you haven't been reading the newspaper for the past seven years) head the Community Christmas each year, by raising the money and the food for hundreds of Christmas dinners.

We've been doing it quite a spell and it's come to be a mighty big chore and there are times—especially about Dec. 26—when we decide to let the thing drop or have someone else take it over,

and then along comes the next December, and with it hundreds of inquiries—"What's the Big Show going to be this year?"—and we decide that after all maybe the results more than justify the effort and we peel off our various coats, roll up our sleeves and shout:

"When do we start?"

For three years we gave benefit boxing shows, and for the past four years we've given midnight shows at the Ohio theater—but this year will be different.

There will be a Charity Ball and a floor show that will have Mansfield fighting for tickets. Wait and see! There may even be some duels over who gets the ringside boxes.

The Charity Ball and public subscriptions will provide the funds for the Christmas baskets this year, and as in other years they will be distributed on Dec. 24, with the Salvation Army hall as a base of distribution. Adjutant David Brown of the Army will be chairman of the committee on needy families.

The general committee for all Community Christmas activities including the ball is made up of representatives of the Three Muster-Cheer organizations: Commander Walter L. Beckley and Herbert Gibbs of the American Legion; R. D. Lindsay and Jane Williams of The News-Journal, and Frank Harpster of the Ohio theater.

Committees for the Charity Ball and for the Christmas basket work will be announced later.

PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA—(AP)—Dr. Emil Hacha, formerly head of the supreme court administration, was elected third president of Czechoslovakia by the national assembly meeting in parliament house today.

24-Hour General Strike Fades

HAILED AS TRIUMPH

Government Cheered as Some Unions Revoke Orders to Stalemate Industry.

(By Associated Press)
PARIS—By a nationwide array of armed force Premier Daladier today quickly broke the 24-hour general strike which constituted organized labor's first big challenge to his government and its economic program.

The stocky premier, whose enemies have accused him of dictatorial ambitions, met the issue head on.

Inside of a few hours there was nothing left of the movement, directed by the powerful General Confederation of Labor, except isolated partial strikes in some private industries, dock workers' strikes in some parts and a few street car strikes.

Trouble Makers Jailed.
Mobile guards, police and in many cases army units were in abundant evidence to prove the premier's determination to smash the labor demonstration against his decree laws.

In cases where active opposition was shown trouble makers were hustled off to police stations.

Approximately 500 arrests were made in the Paris district and several dozen arrests were reported from other points.

Members of the extreme left wing of the day a fiasco for labor and a resounding triumph for Daladier and his government.

It was predicted that Daladier would have a majority when parliament meets again next month, with support from the right and his own Radical-Socialist party.

Union Concedes Defeat.
The first big break in the strikers' front came at 8 a. m. (3 a. m., EST), four hours after the strike began, when the subway workers' union in Paris conceded defeat and revoked its strike order.

BEES ROUTED FROM HOME IN 2-HOUR FIGHT

Colony Ousted After 6-Year
Stay in Eaves, Leave 200
Pounds of Honey.

Routed from their stronghold under the eaves of the D. S. Murray residence at 213 Newman street last night, a colony of bees put up a stiff two-hour battle before they gave up their warm home and a supply of honey estimated at 200 pounds.

The skirmish, which pitted Mr. and Mrs. Michael Meyer, 254 McPherson street, and several neighbors of the Murrys against the angered insects, attracted a crowd of spectators before it was over. But the audience stayed at a safe distance from the battle without the usual urging.

In the thick of the battle with her husband was Mrs. Meyer who helped him get most of the insects into hives to add to his bee colony at his home.

Don't Mind Stinging.
"Both of us were stung several times, but we think we got two lives of the bees safely home," Mrs. Meyer said. The uncertainty, she added, was due to the coating of a number of the bees with honey during the battle which might kill them.

It was a "sweet" victory for the Murrys who got two large tubs full of honey from the bees' makeshift hive between the ceiling and the roof of the house.

The volunteer bee fighters admitted that the ambitious little insects were handicapped by the cold, but Mrs. Meyer pointed out that "they were still pretty lively."

Mrs. Murray explained that the bees had occupied the upper regions of their home unmolested for five or six years, but remodeling of the house made it necessary to remove them.

She said the bees had never stung a member of the family during their six years and for that reason no attempt had been made to oust them.

BUCHAREST—(AP)—Corneliu Zeleanu Codreanu, 39-year-old Rumanian Fascist leader, and 13 others serving terms for treason with him were killed today as Rumanian authorities struck at terrorism attributed to Codreanu's outlawed Iron Guard organization.

An official statement said the 14 men were killed while attempting to escape from Rumik-Sarat prison ten miles from Bucharest and added they were buried in the prison cemetery this morning.

The deaths were expected to bring police and the government to a definite showdown in their energetic and long-standing effort to suppress the Fascist group.

Codreanu was sentenced last May 27 to 10 years' imprisonment for treason.

CUT-OFF TO BE OPENED MONDAY

Workmen to Complete Route
42 Project in Few Days If Weather's Favorable.

The Windsor cut-off on route 42 northeast of Mansfield will be opened for traffic by Monday if weather permits workmen to put the "finishing touches" on the new section of highway, Boyd Wierman, Richland county resident state highway engineer, predicted today.

Work had been virtually completed today on the section of highway to be built this year, and traffic will flow over the route without interruption during the winter, the resident engineer said.

A short section of the Richland county end of the project will not be built until next spring in order to avoid one-way traffic throughout the winter.

Wierman said it would not require more than a day to complete brick-laying on the project, but grading along the side of the highway and minor operations probably will require the rest of this week.

The project, which will cost approximately $250,000, is in charge of the W. H. Ringwald company, Chillicothe.

Damage was estimated at thousands of dollars.

Wounded Desperado Kidnaps
Another Motorist in Dash Toward Wisconsin.

(Picture on Page 3.)

(By International News Service)
CHICAGO—Kidnaping another motorist in their wild flight from the law, the widely sought desperado Benny Dickson and his blond wife were reported early today to have broken out of hiding for a dash into Wisconsin.

A couple answering their description accosted Earl Hollis near his home on the North side and at gun point forced him to drive them to suburban Evanston.

The man, Hollis said, wore a head bandage as Dickson had been doing in the latter stages of the chase he and his wife led police across three states on Monday. He had been slightly wounded in a brush with Michigan police earlier in the day.

Opposite the campus of Northwestern university, the man made Hollis stop and they were met by another automobile containing two men.

Warning Hollis against notifying police, the quartet drove northward, he said.

State police and local departments in all North Shore towns to the Wisconsin border were immediately notified and a highway blockade was manned to bar the escape.

Dickson had been sought for several weeks in connection with a South Dakota bank robbery. On Thanksgiving he and his wife broke out of a police trap near Topeka, Kas.

Communities Rivals in New Business Era, C. of C. Told

Modern day business has entered a new era in competition—not the kind that comes from around the corner, but competition in the most deadly form—that between communities.

That is the opinion expressed by Henry W. Stanley, trade expansion director of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce before 150 persons at the monthly membership meeting of the Chamber of Commerce at the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night.

"Our market lines have changed a great deal in the last few years and with the advent of the motor car and we measure our merchandising influence today, not in miles, but by the convenience of drive," Stanley asserted.

"The methods and means of travel always have constituted our market limits," he said, "but the automobile has given every community the chance to become great commercially—if it has the factors."

Stanley pointed out that present day shoppers think nothing of driving to Cleveland, Akron or Columbus to do their buying.

"There is a very definite reason why they do," he said.

"They say they have a larger market and a greater variety to select from. That means that they find larger stores with a wider variety of merchandise in that one store, where in Mansfield the same variety is divided into multiple units."

Stanley contended there is an "absolute" necessity today for smaller competition because the retailer is selling to a limited market—limited to the normal consumption of the people within his merchandising radius.

Search Renewed for Bodies of 5 Plane Crash Victims

PILOT BLAMES CONFUSION IN RADIO BEAMS

Too Perfect Reception Caused
Hodge-Podge of Signals, Injured Flier Says.

(By United Press)
SAN FRANCISCO — In the churning surf off Point Reyes, the gloomy search was resumed today for the bodies of four men and a young woman who met death yesterday through a strange, new hazard to aviation.

Officials gravely studied the queer phenomenon of "too good" radio reception which so confused the pilot of a Seattle-San Francisco United Airlines plane he became lost and had to bring the transport down on the sea when it ran out of gasoline. One said the phenomenon had occurred just three times, and never before had caused an accident.

Cabin Found Dry
Added to the grief of the five victims' families was the knowledge that had the plane occupants remained in the cabin instead of scrambling to the top of the fuselage "for safety," they probably would have reached shore without injury. The cabin of the wrecked and battered airliner was dry when it was finally washed ashore. The pilot and one passenger survived.

The dead:
Philip Hart, 52, president of the Pacific Bridge company, Portland, Ore.

Ivan B. Heflebower, San Francisco bond broker.

Sidney L. Shonts, San Jose, Cal. WPA engineer, whose daughter, Martha, said tearfully he had promised her "never to fly." His widow is visiting a son in Baltimore, Md.

Co-pilot Lloyd Jones, 30, of Seattle, whose wife, Mrs. Eleanor C. Jones, hopped a plane and flew to Oakland as soon as she heard of the crash, only to be met by word all hope of his safety was gone.

Swept Back to Sea.
Frona Clay, 24-year-old stewardess, who helped everybody out of the plane and made her way to shore, only to be swept back into the sea when she dodged the careening plane wing as it swept by.

The survivors:
Capt. Charles Stead, 42, veteran pilot, who gave a full and harrowing account of the tragedy.

Passenger Isadore Edelstein, 51, paroled Washington state convict bound for Honolulu to begin a new life.

"It was one of those perfect nights when every radio signal was coming in strong," explained Pilot Stead. "You could have called a friend in Australia and recognized his voice. Portland and Salt Lake were coming in stronger than Sacramento. There was such a hodge-podge of radio beam signals we couldn't pick out our own to follow."

Decrease of 8,500
In Traffic Deaths
Foreseen For 1938

CHICAGO —(AP)—The best automobile safety record in the nation's history was envisioned for 1938 by the national safety council today.

October marked the 12th consecutive month in which the number of traffic deaths declined.

"If this reduction rate can be maintained," the council said, "the 1938 traffic toll will be approximately 8,500 below last year—the first drop since 1932 and the greatest in the nation's history."

The council announced a nationwide campaign to cut the December traffic toll. Police chiefs and other public officials were asked to step up traffic enforcement, and to post officers at night clubs and other public places during the holiday season to dissuade drinking drivers from taking the wheel.

Traffic deaths in October totaled 3,130, the fewest for that month in 10 years with the exception of 1932.

Hairdresser, Mechanic Guilty In Spy Case

Up and Down THE STREET

Dr. James J. Hoffer, a former Mansfielder who has been practicing dentistry in Chicago for a number of years, has pleasant recollections of his boyhood here, according to a recent article which he wrote for a Chicago neighborhood paper in which he told of a Thanksgiving dinner at the old family home. His brother, Brainard, has also received a copy of an Armistice day poem written by "Jim."

Joe Neff, Bucyrus insurance man, got a free ride from Crestline to Mansfield the other night on the Pennsylvania's streamlined Broadway Limited, but he was too busy wondering how he was going to get off to enjoy it. While on the train to bid a friend goodbye, the streamliner pulled out of Crestline, and when Neff learned the next stop was Pittsburgh, he made a perfect "three-point landing" from the back coach near the Westinghouse plant. The train slows down in Mansfield, and Neff took the chance without serious results. Atty. Henry Huston, a friend, came to his rescue and took him back to Crestline to get his car which he had left with the engine running.

David Karbula, Capper court, was wrestling with a problem today that was of major proportions—to him. Several days ago he was riding his bicycle and it skidded into the side of a car. The driver gave David what the boy thought it would take to repair the damages—a dollar—and drove away. But when David took his bike to the repair shop and had it all mended, he found that the bill was $7.50 and he can't possibly raise the money. Of course he hasn't any claim on the driver if he skidded into the car, but since it's so near Christmas and the driver seemed like a pretty nice guy, David was wondering—well anyway, the driver could find him at his home just off Fourth street.

HEALTH SEAL CAMPAIGN OPENS TOMORROW—COUNTY GOAL $4,000

The Richland county campaign for the sale of Christmas Health Seals officially opens tomorrow with the goal for the city and county set at $4,000. Of this amount Mansfield will be asked to buy $2,800 worth of the seals which finance the county's preventive measures against tuberculosis.

There will be no house-to-house canvassing this year nor sales by school children, but instead the campaign will be done almost entirely by mail, George H. Smith, chairman of the Mansfield drive, said.

The campaign is being sponsored by the Richland County Tuberculosis association with Mrs. H. C. Brokaw of Shelby as general chairman.

Smith said that 2,800 sheets of the seals—100 penny seals in a sheet—will be placed in the mails tonight. This method was used last year when approximately 2,600 was raised in the city and $1,000 in the county.

This is the 32nd consecutive year that the Health Seals have been sold in the United States. They were formerly distributed in Mansfield under the auspices of the Visiting Nurses association and proceeds were used to finance the fresh air camp in the summer.

For the past two years the funds derived from the seal sale have financed free tuberculosis clinics, and as a result new cases of the disease have been found and brought under medical care and treatment in their early stages.

Officers and committee members for the 1938 Health Seal campaign in Mansfield, besides Mrs. Brokaw and Smith, are: O. C. McCormick, assistant chairman; Mrs. J. C. Gorman, treasurer; Rev. Grover E. COUPLE FACING PRISON TERMS UP TO 20 YEARS

Jury Still Deliberates in Case of Third Accused in Nazi Espionage Ring.

(By United Press)
NEW YORK—A hairdresser and an airplane mechanic were convicted today of being spies in the United States in behalf of Nazi Germany.

The fate of a third defendant, a former private in the army air corps, still rested with the federal court jury.

Found guilty and facing prison terms that may amount to 20 years were Johanna Hofmann, 27-year-old former hairdresser on the North German Lloyd liner, Europa, and Otto Hermann Voss, 39, a German-born mechanic in the Seversky airplane factory at Farmingdale, Long Island, which manufactures planes for the army. The jury resumed deliberations today in the case of Erich Glaser, 28, German-born former private in the army air corps.

The jury of 10 men and two women required six hours to convict Miss Hofmann and Voss of a crime which in war time carries a death penalty. Federal Judge John C. Knox ordered the jurors to go to their hotel and resume deliberations on Glaser's case today.

Calm Over Verdict.
Miss Hofmann and Voss displayed no emotion when the verdict was returned. When the jury had retired after Judge Knox struck a blow at the defense in his charge, Miss Hofmann was on the verge of tears and Voss was shaken.

The guilt or innocence of the young hairdresser was the prime issue in the jury's deliberations. An hour and a half after it had retired, it requested three exhibits dealing with her testimony—her confession to agents of the federal bureau of investigation, her testimony before a grand jury, and her translation of a German code letter in her possession when she was arrested.

GEN. JOHNSON: Even Accepting Hopkins Denial, the Words Will Haunt Him For Years

—By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—Far be it from this column to keep alive the now somewhat stale controversy between Harry Hopkins and Arthur Krock as to whether Harry said that the policy of the third New Deal is to "tax and tax and spend and spend and elect and elect."

Mr. Krock didn't hear it. He thought he had heard it. So did this column weeks earlier—minus the "elect and elect." And on the say-so of two ear witnesses.

My belief might be something like the aged and doting Kentucky colonel who accused his young fiancée of embracing a handsome stranger. She indignantly denied it. He protested he had seen it in broad daylight at three yards distance. She convinced his fond heart by saying: "Do you believe your honey, or do you believe you eyes?"

Nevertheless, I believe Mr. Hopkins. Words are tricky things, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's column appears here today in place of the customary Westbrook Pegler article, which was not transmitted.

especially in an uproar at the races. He might just have said: "The track attracts to spend and spend. Select and select me some winners"—or sompin'—mebbe.

His listeners, catching some such sentence jumbled in the wind and noise, could have thought he said what they said he said because it is consistent with everything the third New Deal has recently done—and inconsistent with nothing Mr. Hopkins has said or ever done.

For that reason it doesn't make the slightest difference whether he said it or not.

Because the saying, whether spoken or not, so aptly and so accurately describes what the administration and especially WPA has been doing, the denial falls dead and the words become a catch phrase that will haunt Hopkins for years.

This is especially unfortunate for him because the denial came long after the publication and in the meantime there ascended a little trial balloon, perhaps from the Hopkins wing of the White House jannissariat, of "Hopkins for President—yes?—no?"

The publicity and timing for that were very bad. It came on the heels of wide disclosures that Mr. Hopkins repeated assurances that there is no political jobbing in WPA relief were all very much in error and the public is sore about that. It came just after the Hopkins-Corcoran purge turned sour and the mid-term elections spoke their rebuke.

I am not sure that it doesn't put Harry on the ropes. His WPA, as recently run, is getting to be a political liability, and he with it. There was talk of saving him by making him secretary of commerce or war. But he knows nothing about either subject and the rumor now is that this project is out.

Any such outcome would be somewhat sad. In the emergency of 1933 and 1934, Mr. Hopkins did one of the best jobs in this administration. He was able, courageous, honest—and modest. He is still all that—all that except the last. When the presidential tarantula stings a man there is no way to predict what it will do to him.

Hollywood Speaks---
—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—You can look for a mighty, if belated, exploitation campaign on the film "Kentucky." The picture was in the can before anybody at 20th-Century discovered it. Mr. D. Zanuck, among others, sat up with a start at its first private showing, which might seem strange when you consider that Mr. Z. knows what's going on around his lot.

If "Kentucky"—shot in color to bolster the box-office that does not lie too heavily in Loretta Young and Richard Greene—is as good as they think, it'll still not be as weird a surprise as some others Hollywood has known.

The champion movie dark horse is still "One Night of Love," Grace Moore's first for Columbia. So bad, the studio thought, that they practically abandoned it in mid-field. It was completed, grudgingly, on the good-money-after-bad theory and shown hesitantly, with apologies, in privacy of the studio projection room, to first one and then another. Bolstered by compliments, the film was subjected to "sneak" preview—and made history.

Problems Face Baseball Men May Adopt Uniform Baseball Indians To Figure In Deals

IN HOMES and farmsteads over the land the big league baseball men are stowing away their hunting equipment and paring their bunnions in preparation for the winter meeting which starts in New York Dec. 13.

Baseball men do about 98 per cent of their meeting while shifting from one foot to another in the hotel lobby, retiring to the easy chairs only on the third day when their arches finally crack under the strain, so a certain amount of resting-up is necessary in advance of the conventions.

The approaching meeting promises to be fairly interesting, even though the net results never are commensurate with the amount of talk indulged in. There should be several big player deals, with the Cleveland Indians and New York Giants figuring in the most important transactions.

The two leagues are due finally to get together on a uniform baseball, with the American adopting the so-called "pitchers' tag" introduced by the National a year ago. Tests have proved this ball travels as far as the American league pellet when hit solidly, but its raised seams afford the pitcher a better grip.

It is recalled that both leagues were set to adopt this ball at their last winter meeting, but that something happened at the last minute. The American league became miffed at President Ford Frick of the senior circuit and bolted the tentative agreement. Now they are understood to be at peace again. Next summer, with a uniform ball in play, it will be possible to make more accurate comparisons in the pitching and batting of the rival leagues.

The New York Yankees, with no money troubles, are going to ask the American league to start paying player salaries on the first day of spring training, rather than waiting until the season opens. Owner Jacob Ruppert has figured out that this would be an effective method of discouraging the holdouts and getting all players into camp on the dot.

This would stand an excellent chance of adoption were it not for the fact that there always are several clubs with no money to speak of in the bank.

Indians to Ask Permission to Play Night Games.

THE subject of night baseball will be up for some acrimonious discussion in American league councils, with the Cleveland Indians demanding permission to play seven games under the floodlights next summer.

It takes a majority vote of the clubs to grant the fixing of night games, and the club that applies must convince the others that the nocturnal bouts are a financial necessity. Cleveland was turned down the last time it applied, but they say President Alva Bradley is coming back this time with fire in his eye.

The only National league argument in sight is a three-cornered one, with General Manager Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn scrapping the Giants and their American league allies, the Yankees, over Larry's right to broadcast home games. The three clubs had an agreement not to broadcast before Larry took over in Brooklyn, and he is fighting to break it.

Reports are current here that the Giants have offered St. Louis $250,000 for either Ducky Medwick or Johnny Mize, but there is no confirmation in the Giants' office.

Bickering Starts Over Bowl Lineup.

WITH most of the dates made, the battle of the bowls went merrily on today. Comment on the various selections and guesses on the outcome of the games has given the old blues more cannon fodder than they have had in years. The better box office draws already have been selected. The lineup for Jan. 2:

ROSE BOWL, Pasadena, Cal.—Duke, Southern conference champion, vs. Southern California, tied for Pacific Coast conference title.

SUGAR BOWL, New Orleans—Texas Christian, Southwest conference titlist, vs. Carnegie Tech.

COTTON BOWL, Dallas—Texas Tech vs. Villanova—if Villanova decides to accept.

ORANGE BOWL, Miami—Tennessee, Southeastern conference champion, vs. Oklahoma, Big Six champion.

SUN BOWL, El Paso—New Mexico has invited Utah. No word from the Utes as yet.

COAL BOWL, Charleston, W. Va.—Unheard of since Carnegie Tech turned down a bid.

PRUNE BOWL (don't say you weren't warned) San Jose, Cal.—San Jose State vs. Memphis Teachers. This one's set for Dec. 26.

EASTERN BOWL, New York—Off. See the New York weather report.

Other operations: East-West all star game, San Francisco, and North-South all star game at Montgomery, Ala.

In the old days they used to just pick 'em and play 'em. Now they pick the selections apart. The Los Angeles sportswriters are panicking Duke's selection and there is mild indignation in Texas that the Christian's state's pride, will gambol outside the state.

Main complaint in Los Angeles seems to be that the Trojans turned down a chance to get Texas Christian for Duke. One writer reported the Tournament of Roses officials were definitely inclined toward the Horned Frogs and that Duke "features a heroic but far from spectacular, stonewall defense" and added Southern California was letting itself in for "dirty scraps about 'picking somebody who is pretty sure not to do much scoring'."

All this probably will be seized by the astute Wallace Wade of Duke to whip his boys up to a fine lather of revenge against the Trojans.

Monty Stratton Suffers Relapse

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Monty Stratton, star pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, whose right leg was amputated Monday, was reported in a critical condition early today. Stratton suffered a relapse late last night and became delirious. Hypodermic injections were required to quiet him.

The big right-hander, who is 25 years old, was wounded Sunday on his mother's farm near Greenville, Tex., when a pistol in his hip holster was accidentally discharged and the bullet tore open the back of his leg. It was later found necessary to remove it above the knee to prevent the spread of gangrene.

Mid-State Football Conference Disbands

THE Mid-State football league was dissolved at a meeting held earlier this week in Bellville, it was disclosed today.

The circuit composed of four Class B schools in the immediate vicinity was terminated due to an apparent lack of interest in the league by Mt. Gilead, according to an authoritative source.

Mt. Gilead was not represented at the meeting at which the schedule for next season was to have been adopted and Madison, Bellville and Loudonville representatives, regarding the absence of officials of that school as a sign that they no longer wished to continue in the conference, decided to disband rather than continue with only three teams.

The possibility of interesting other schools in the circuit appears remote as virtually all of the schools in this vicinity were members of the league until this year when they withdrew because of the strength of Madison, which won the title again this season.

Whether any attempts will be made to re-organize the league without Madison could not be learned.

Reports were heard earlier this fall that a new league involving Butler, Bellville, Loudonville, Mt. Gilead, Danville and Fredericktown was being considered, but the rumor was never substantiated.

If a league with the teams mentioned is organized, it will probably be formed in the near future as it is the custom to complete football schedules before Jan. 1.

Al Fendrick, head coach and athletic director at Madison, said today that Madison is no longer interested in the Mid-State league or any other affiliation at present. Madison, however, will continue to play Bellville and Loudonville.

He was not certain whether the Mt. Gilead rivalry would be continued.

The Mid-State league was organized in 1933 with Madison, Mt. Gilead, Loudonville, Butler, Bellville, Danville and Fredericktown. The league retained this membership until last winter when Butler, Danville and Fredericktown withdrew because of their failure to present the same grade of football as Madison and the other schools.

There was an apparent lack of interest in the league this year because of a reduction in the membership, but President Tony Grant of Loudonville was hopeful of enlarging the circuit within a few years.

Madison was crowned champion in five of the six races staged. The only defeat suffered by the Mansfield suburban schools in the league was administered by Mt. Gilead in 1935.

Zuppke's Job Saved By Board

Veteran Illinois Coach Upheld By 8 to 1 Vote.

By STEVE SNIDER

CHICAGO—(UP)—It was Zup's greatest victory in 26 years at Illinois but the fight isn't over yet.

Dissension in the University of Illinois athletic department apparently remained unhealed today after its unsuccessful attempt to oust Bob Zuppke as head football coach and place him on a compulsory leave of absence until his retirement age is reached in six years.

"Quits" Under Pressure.

The colorful little Dutchman resigned yesterday under pressure from the athletic board, then had his job saved by university trustees who vetoed the ouster proposal by a vote of 8 to 1. He arrived in Chicago today with fire in his eye for his first public appearance since the coaching situation boiled over—the result of his teams poor showings in recent years.

"Pressure was turned on me down there by men who don't know a five-man line from a quarterback," he said. "It's been growing all year long and I finally had to put it up to a test vote."

"I hope the athletic board can stand it. We're not going to be very good next year either."

Zup himself informed the trustees that his resignation had been forced by the athletic board.

It was the first time in all the 26 years Zup has been handling Illinois football teams—through the golden seasons of "Red" Grange, to the desperate lows of 1932—that his job ever had been endangered.

Even Zup isn't certain of the next move, although friends indicate he might bring the athletic department fight before the public at a "victory banquet" in his honor today at Oak Park, Ill., where he first gained coaching fame.

It was a trying day for Zuppke as his beloved job was debated in a secret meeting at a Loop hotel. One of the trustees, Harold Pogue of Decatur, Ill., a ball carrying star on Zuppke's brilliant championship team of 1914, telephoned him that the resignation was being considered. Another call from an undisclosed source said it had been accepted and Zup conceded defeat.

The 8 to 1 veto, however, was more than enough to carry even if the absent members, Gov. Henry Horner and Dr. Carl Meyer of Chicago had supported the ouster proposal.

Declines to Comment.

Athletic Director Wendell S. Wilson declined to say how the athletic board voted regarding Zuppke's resignation as head coach or who headed the move. He acted merely as a messenger, carrying the board's proposal, although he revealed the group had decided not to fire Zup but to place him on a compulsory leave of absence at a salary of $5,000 until he is 65. Zuppke was 59 last July 2.

Tygers Drill For Inaugural

NEW CROP LOAN PLAN ASSURES 70-CENT WHEAT

200 in County Expected to Apply for Funds; Corn Program Also Opens.

Nearly 200 Richland county farmers were expected to apply for federal crop loans on their 1938 wheat crop under the government plan which assures them of 70 cents a bushel for their grain, G. L. Taylor, county soils conservation chairman, said today.

The federal plan providing for loans of 57 cents per bushel on the new corn crop probably will attract an even greater number of farmers, Taylor said, but since the program just went into effect he was unable to estimate to what extent it will appeal to corn growers.

Approximately 50 farmers already have asked for wheat loans totaling $1,500, or an average of $30 each, Taylor said. The deadline for filing applications for wheat loans is Jan. 1, while corn loan applications will be handled at the county conservation office on East Third street until March or April.

Test Wheat Samples.

After the wheat application is filed, C. C. Till, the county committee's grain inspector, obtains samples of the grain and sends them to Columbus for a test of the moisture content.

If the grain is satisfactory, the farmer gives a chattel mortgage on his wheat to the federal commodity corporation which grants the loan to May 31, 1939, at four per cent interest.

If the price of wheat is 70 cents or lower per bushel at the expiration of the loan, the federal government takes the mortgaged wheat in full payment. If the price is higher than 70 cents, the farmer can either sell his wheat to a local dealer or to the government at the market figure, pay off his loan plus interest, and retain the difference.

The same procedure will be used in payment of the corn loans at 57 cents per bushel. The current price of wheat in Mansfield is from 57 to 59 cents per bushel and 50 to 60 cents for corn.

County conservation committee-men said they were attempting to get a Mansfield national bank to handle the crop loans to eliminate long delays in obtaining loans from the federal agencies.

REALLY SEE 'EM

Police Excited As Snake Crawls From Box.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(AP)—Seeing snakes became literally true, right in the Louisville police station.

A brown-spotted reptile, held as evidence against a man who police said got tipsy and poked the "pet" in people's faces, got out of its box and slithered across the floor.

Blue coats flew, nightsticks crashed on the floor, and general disorder among the officers followed before it was captured.

WARS ON FEVER

Research Director Sees Hope for 1st Effective Cure.

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Dr. I. F. Huddleson, Michigan State College research director who developed the first effective cure for undulant fever, believes the disease can be eliminated entirely.

Since 1934, 2,596,534 head of cattle have been destroyed in the United States because of the sickness. Dr. Huddleson has studied it for five years, intermittently, on the island of Malta in the Mediterranean sea. There he discovered Brucella, a curative agent which has proved effective in 85 per cent of the cases.

The Michigan State laboratory in Lansing has been licensed to manufacture the agent by the National Institute of Health, and more than 100 treatments are sent weekly to physicians throughout the United States.

List Don'ts For Those Wanting to Dine Correctly

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—Two authorities on the gentle art of dining, Roy L. Alciatore and J. George Frederick, have offered a few "don'ts" which may come in handy if you step out during the coming holidays.

Alciatore's family has been in the restaurant business for three generations at the same stand, nationally known Antione's here, and Frederick is president of the Gourmet society of New York. Don't, they said, "be pushed around" when you go to a restaurant. Ask for the food you want and leave if you can't get it.

Don't be influenced by eye appeal, swank or socialite patronage.

Don't drink hard liquor before dinner and don't smoke just before or during a meal.

Don't try to be a wine expert; stick to a few standard points.

Don't change your order, bring your own liquor, buy a sandwich and stay two hours, or run down a place on hearsay.

Don't be too familiar with waiters, don't play practical jokes, and don't engage in heated discussions.

And don't season food without tasting. But do—and they both agreed—arrange for meals in advance when possible. More time and care can be taken in preparation.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1938.

Now comes the drab season when football players can return to their studies—if any.People of the United States now have a wonderful opportunity to show the world that a democracy can succeed.Remnants of the Thanksgiving turkey having by now been disposed of, restaurant patrons are approaching their noon repast with greater gusto.

No More Davey Appointments, Please.

TALK of a special session of the state legislature being called for December 15 by Governor Davey now appears to be without foundation.While the ostensible purpose of such a special session would be to aid school financing it can scarcely be escaped that the real purpose would be to attempt to secure senate confirmation of several Davey political appointments which had previously been withheld.With Davey so soon to relinquish the office of governor, and with a strongly expressed public inclination to make a thorough clean-up of several state departments, there would be little tolerance of any plan designed to place additional Davey appointees in state offices.The present legislature, in its several sessions, has had ample time in which to demonstrate its incompetency in dealing with problems of school financing, and safest procedure at this late date apparently is to let the matter go over for early action by the new legislature.

Courage and Faith.

Seldom have people of this generation had opportunity to observe a finer example of courage and faith than is now being provided by 81-year-old Pope Pius XI, who refuses to accept the role of invalid, although his faltering heart has several times seemed to bring death very close to him.Better a vacant chair than a Pope who does not fulfill functions of a Pope," he said to his doctor and aids who insisted with him for leaving his sick bed to perform the duties of his office.When God calls Pope Pius from his earthly work he will be ready to go—meanwhile he is dedicated to performance of the tasks that lie before him, sustained by a great faith which surmounts physical weakness.Here is an example of human life at its finest, an illustration of the extent to which spiritual development may be advanced during earthly existence.

Radio as Source of Power.

WHEN Charles F. Kettering, chief of the research department of General Motors, ventures the suggestion that,
at some future time, radio waves may supply the power to run automobiles, comparatively few people are so bold as to assert, "It can't be done."So many "impossible" things have been accomplished within the past fifty years that even the most fantastic predictions are given respectful hearing nowadays.Mr. Kettering is one of those forward-looking men who believes that wonderful progress is still to be made in the physical world.When he was asked recently what motor cars would run on after the available supply of fuels had been exhausted he mentioned the radio idea, with the possibility of power originating at a central station and being picked up through special receiving sets.And, when you stop to think of it, such an achievement of science within the next fifty years would be no more amazing than has been the development of radio within the past thirty years.

Steel Houses in the South.

THE AGE OF STEEL seems to be approaching a climax in the production of steel dwellings. Foretold for many years as at last a reality. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Manufacturing Company, subsidiary of the U. S. Steel Corporation, is shipping prefabricated metal farm dwellings to Alabama, Georgia and South Carolina.These seem to be complete rural outfits. Each unit includes the buildings—a dwelling, barn, chicken house, outdoor bath and sanitary accommodations. The typical house has living room, three bedrooms and a combination kitchen and dining room, and has necessary closets, pantry and space for a bathroom. The dwelling contains six tons of steel. This material is used in the foundation structure, the frame, ceiling, roof, outside doors, window trim and fireplaces. The side doors and floors are of wood. The cost is said to be enough to compete with ordinary buildings of wood,
brick, plaster, etc.This development may result in a big wave of simple,
sanitary and vermin-proof construction, especially in the South.

Economy or Bankruptcy.

NO LONGER can an American citizen look abroad at the heavy tax burden borne by the European citizen and,
with a sigh of relief, thank providence that he is not cursed with an equally heavy burden. Actual cost of government in this country now challenges that of Great Britain.According to figures compiled by the United States Chamber of Commerce, "American taxes in 1937 were 47 per cent more than in 1923 and 22 per cent more than in 1928.""British per capita taxes, on the contrary, were 5 per cent less in 1937 than in 1928 and only about 5 per cent more than in 1923."Actual per capita taxes collected in this country about equal the per capita tax in Britain. But Britain has steadily clung to a balanced budget, or very close to one, while since 1930 this country has squandered itself into the red to the tune of $24,000,000,000! In other words, there are $24,000,000,000 of deferred taxes hanging over the heads of American citizens which eventually must be paid.Germany shows what can happen when race prejudice is substituted for statesmanship.Vegetarians have a hard time making converts during the holiday season.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — December 9
means nothing north of the Rio Grande, south of the Rio Grande it is Latin America's Fourth of July, for on that date
in 1824 the last of the Spanish
viceroys was beaten on the plains of Ayacucho two miles above sea level in a battle that drove Spain
finally out of South America.For that reason the Pan American conference chose Dec. 9 as the opening day of the upcoming meeting at Lima, Peru, only a few miles from Ayacucho.To South Americans that victory was as important as the surrender of Cornwallis at Yorktown to Yankee patriots. And as a battle, it was ten times more colorful.
It won't hurt to know something about it, because South America is going to be in your conversation
more and more as the months roll
on.The combined forces of both sides could find office space in any one of several Federal buildings here. The Spanish army numbered 9,500 men and 24 cannon. The Republican army had 6,000 men and one tiny cannon.For several days the two armies marched one on either side of a precipitous gorge, almost within hailing distance of each other but neither able to bring the other to launch the attack across the gorge.
It was tortuous marching, in rugged rocky country, with the 11, 000-foot elevation distressing even seasoned fighters.

Surprise Move Advantageous.

ON THE afternoon of December
8, General La Serna, the Spanish viceroy, led his army in a surprise march well ahead of the poorly equipped Republican army.
He crossed the canyon, went entirely around the Republican army and occupied Condor Heights. The Republicans faced the enemy in this new position, with backs to the deep gorge and each side cut off by deep gullies.Bolívar, the liberator, was not with his army. He had gone to Lima for recruits, leaving General Sucre in command.The real fighting began next morning, Dec. 9. The viceroy sent out a division to attack the Republicans on the flank across the shallowest of the gullies. He then began marching his men down from Condor Heights. His position in that respect was bad.
He could not charge pell-mell
down the hill, but had to weave
in and out among rocks and brush.
The Republican general, Sucre, quieted his men by marching back and forth in front of them, promising them a "day of glory." He held up the attack until about half the Spanish force was down the hill. Then he ordered his infantry to advance with bayonets.

Dramatic Generalship.

DRAMATICALLY, Col. Cordova, commanding the infantry, dismounted from his horse and killed
it with his sword."I have now no means of escape,
and we must fight it out together."
The two sides fought bravely for a few tense moments, then a wing
of Republican cavalry charged.
With their own cavalry hopelessly disorganized among the rocks of Condor Heights, the Spanish were overcome. They fled back up the hills, hotly pursued by the Columbian cavalry strengthened by a heavy infiltration of Argentine gauchos. The viceroy was wounded and captured.General John Miller, a British officer fighting for the Republicans, led another cavalry attack
on the flanking Spanish division,
drove them back across the gully
and slaughtered hundreds. One thousand Republicans were killed, and 2,000 Spanish. More than 3,000 Spanish surrendered later, and the others scattered. The battle was over in an hour and the Spanish grip on South America broken.

FORGOTTEN MAN—1938

War Requires Skilled Mechanics

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Speaking very much sub rosa, our professional army and navy men say this country hasn't the man power to create the military establishment
the next congress is going to be asked to provide for. That is, the critics explain, we haven't the capacity to put such a program through in anything like short order.When these folk refer to our lack of man power, they don't mean that we're so deficient in number of men to do our actual fighting, if any. Their judgment is that we could train sizable forces of soldiers and sailors into creditable shape pretty rapidly. Authorities like Gen. Malin Craig seems to think we could lick an army's personnel into fairly serviceable form in a matter of months, but not necessarily more than that. Educating seamen would take longer than that, for their duties are more highly technical. Fliers' stunts are still more so.Still, potential out-and-out scrappers are not the gentry we are essentially shy on.What we need and haven't got,
according to such experts as Assistant Secretary of War Louis
Johnson and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Charles Edison (who really are the respective heads of the war and navy departments), is an adequate background of skilled mechanics to keep the front-line supplied with a sufficient equipment to kill the enemy efficiently.

Germany Not So Ready.

Confidential advices from overseas indicate that, at the time
British Premier Chamberlain flew to Germany to negotiate with Herr Hitler relative to Czechoslovakia,
the fuhrer was not as ready as he pretended to be to go to the mat
with the democratic powers.The Fatherland was supposed to have Britain, France and Russia, combined, enormously outclassed
in a matter of aircraft.It does appear that the Teutons
were at an advantage arithmetically, as to their count of planes. The question is: had they the human flbers to fly their crates and the ground crews to keep the crates conditioned? It looks now as ifthey hadn't—as if the Nazis simply bluffed Chamberlain and Daladier.
It's the same way with tanks,
modern heavy artillery and machine guns. It isn't so difficult to operate these contrivances and do
the shooting, but it requires craftsmanship to keep them operable
and shooatable.Vessels like men-o-war and submarines call for even more stay-at-home tinkering.It's estimated that half a dozen
first-class mechanics, to one fighting man, are essential to maintain
one of these big weapons (a plane or a tank) going. Of course the proportion of non-combatant fix-ers is tremendously higher in the case of warships, et cetera.For instance, a war fleet has to have a mercantile marine back of
it. Officials of our Maritime Commission assure me that it will takeus five years to build up to a level with any foreign nation.As to our fighting ships, we can't do that well. We haven't the navy yards.We were establishing them when the World War ended, but we quit
then. Today they'll have to be rehabilitated if they're to be kept going.

Mechanics At A Premium.

Considering our unemployment problem it would appear that war-building mechanics should not be at a premium.In fact, this isn't the case.
Military experts' story is that their kind of mechanics are scarce.
Their version is that the deficiency
is 60,000 to 75,000.Moral:
Go into the munitions-making business.

I hate it, but it looks profitable.

Health Advice

Thyroid Controls General Nutrition.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE thyroid gland is the best known of the ductless glands.
It is seated in the front of the base of the neck, and everyone must have seen it outlined under the skin in people with goiter.Knowledge of treatment of thyroid gland disorders is more advanced than that of any other ductless gland. Its action in the body is, first, to control the general nutrition; all the processes in the body are kept up to level by the action of the thyroid secretion.When the secretion fails, due to atrophy of the gland, a peculiar scurvy condition of the entire body occurs. The child who is the victim of this disorder becomes flat and paunchy looking. It moves slowly and painfully. It does not grow normally. And its mentality is on the level of an idiot. Feeding children of this kind with fresh thyroid extract often brings about marvelous results. Growth begins, activity comes to normal and the mind develops—a new being is brought forth.

Myxoedema Explained.

When the gland atrophies in adult life, the condition is called myxoedema. The bodily result is much the same as in cretinism.
Slowly the victim grows heavy,
with deposits of a sort of connective tissue under the skin. The face becomes heavy, the eyes listless, the lids full—the whole appearance animal-like. With this there is great mental regression.
Speech and gait are slow and difficult, and there is a gradual withdrawal from life. There is a constant sensation of being cold.
In this condition, also, the feeding of thyroid extract frequently brings about a return to normal.So much of the atrophy or shrinking of the gland. It may also increase in size and pour extra amounts of secretion into the blood stream. These enlargements are familiar as goiter.Several forms of goiter are distinguished—simple goiter (enlargement of the gland without symptoms), toxic goiter, cystic goiter (great enlargement without any extra secretion) and ex-ophthalmic or "pop-eyed" goiter.
The actual cause of these enlargements is not known. Simple goiter is probably due to lack of iodine in the food and water. Such is the cause in goiter districts.
These goiters can be prevented by adding a little iodine salt to the food.

Opposite Result.

In the exophthalmic goiter an extra large amount of thyroid secretion is thrown out into the blood stream. The result is justthe opposite of myxoedema. There is loss of weight, a sense of being hot all the time, great nervousness and muscular restlessness and trembling. There is a peculiar enlargement or pushing out of the eyeballs, which gives the patient
the appearance of being terrified.
The condition has some relation to fear, and soldiers have come out from battle with the syndrome completely developed.This form of goiter may run its course and get well spontaneously.
But surgical removal will shorten
the course and today this method of treatment is quite regularly applied.

So You Can't Find Work, Youngster?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

OR MAYBE you aren't a youngster. Perhaps you're a grown man with a disheartening record of failure behind you . . . jobs in which you never quite clicked . . .
positions that slipped from your grasp after a few weeks of futile fumbling. Or you may be a woman . . . seemingly serene and secure . . . yet actually restless and rootless because you haven't found your niche in life.Whatever you are, you're filled with the same bitterness at your own fate, the same envy of others,
the same feeling that Life has gyped you, somehow . . . that you've never had a square deal.Gypped? I wonder! Suppose you forget the self pity for a moment and take a straight look at the picture. You're bright enough. You're willing to work.
You can turn your hand to a score of things . . . Yet you can't get a job . . . can't find your place in life . . .Well, what sort of job—or place
—would you like, if you could have it for the asking? Do you know?IT'S A HUNDRED-TO-ONE SHOT THAT YOU DON'T!You may not like that answer
. . . may deny it indignantly. Yet any employer can confirm it. Out of his own experience. Recently, B. C. Forbes, the great financial authority, quoted the following statement, made by one of America's most famous industrial leaders."Relations, friends, acquaintances constantly send young men to me to get employment.
When I ask them: 'If you had your choice, what would you like to do?' I am disheartened by the almost invariable reply. They don't know whether they would like to go into a factory and learn production or whether they would like to become salesmen or bookkeepers and accountants or advertising men.
All most of them reply is: 'I'M WILLING TO DO ANYTHING. I HAVE NO PREFERENCE.'"They're "willing to do anything"
—BUT THEY DON'T KNOW WHAT . . . there's the cause of
at least three-quarters of our human failures. We're not kayoed by the Depression . . . nor by Capitalism . . . nor by Crookedness Amongst the Big Shots.We're kayoed by our own indecision. We'd rather drift and dream than get down to brass tacks. We'd rather think of all the thrilling things we might be than decide the one definite thing
we should be—and then get to work on the job.In short, instead of picking our own destiny, we expect Fate to choose it for us—and hand it to us on a silver platter. And never has this tendency been as pronounced as it is today, in this Machine Age. From the cradle to the grave, life comes to us ready-made. Machines lift us . . . carry us . . . predigest our foods . . .
wash our hair . . . lick our stamps . . . perform every service from the simplest chore to the most complicated process.Overnight we have become the Spoiled Darlings of the Ages . . .
unconsciously expecting something or someone to meet and settle our every emergency.But there is one job which no one can do but yourself—AND THAT IS THE JOB OF SELECT-ING THE THING YOU WANT TO BE . . . CHOOSING THE PLACE YOU WANT TO HOLD.That basic selection is the most important thing in your whole life . . . and you, yourself, are the only one who can make that selection. You may appoint others to make it . . . or they may appoint themselves. BUT YOU WILL NEVER GET IT.

After that picture of a goat
and a big yellow rose couldn't be anything but Billy Rose. Jack Oakie was easy, too, there being a key, an oak leaf, and some odd pieces of silver. The silver was Jack. The oak leaf and the key made a simple Jack Oakie.NOW the game began to require I thought. There was the picture of a duck hunter in a marsh with a gun in his hand, and off to one side his dog was retrieving a dead duck. Near the picture was a piece of lingerie. After lengthy contingation and much weighing and sifting our shrewd reasoning identified the lingerie as a pair of steeps. A nice rosebud pink they were. And the dog was a retriever.
Lingerie and retriever. Steeps and fetching. Why, doan you knows me, honey? Heah Ah is, ole Stepin Fetchit!It went on from there, and it was lots of fun. Small town stuff, you think? Maybe. But that's what the nightclubs are turning to. At one of them the guests stand up in the center of the floor and at a given signal start blowing up balloons. The one who breaks his balloon first wins a magnum of champagne.But the guessing game to me was a lot of fun, and its possibilities are endless. A lot of people think the rest of the country
ought to be more like New York,
but I don't. I think New York ought to be more like the rest of America.

POSTMEN KEYED TO MEET RUSH OF YULE MAIL

Sending of Christmas Packages Already Under Way; Mail Early Plea Renewed.

With the Christmas holiday season already under way, the Mansfield postoffice today sent out its annual plea—"do your Christmas mailing early."

Preparations have been made, however, to handle the traditional last minute rush to mail greeting cards and packages. Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said.

Holiday packages already are passing through the postoffice, and to handle the delivery a few days before Christmas, three state highway trucks will be used in addition to the postoffice's own four trucks. Additional clerks also will be added to the present staff during Christmas week, Homberger said.

Persons having a large number of parcels and cards to mail were urged by the postmaster to purchase their stamps in advance in order to help relieve congestion at the postoffice during the rush of Christmas week.

Extra Stamps Arrive.

An additional supply of stamps in all denominations to meet what is expected to be a record holiday demand has been received at the postoffice.

To aid the public and assure delivery of holiday packages by Dec. 24 Homberger advised:

1. Make certain all letters have proper and legible addresses and return addresses.

2. Indicate perishable and fragile articles by writing the words on packages.

3. Pack perishable and fragile articles carefully.

4. Gifts addressed for delivery in far western states should be mailed no later than Dec. 15.

Christmas cards in unsealed envelopes require postage of one and a half cents, but Homberger advised that all such cards be mailed first class with two-cent postage for city delivery, and three cents for out-of-town delivery.

"The first class mail has to be delivered, while an unsealed envelope may not be delivered if the address is improper," he explained.

When You Buy Christmas Toys Keep In Mind The Child's Age

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer

THOSE toys under the Christmas tree can be a big help to the development of the child who gets them, and also "just the thing he wanted"—if they have been chosen with a little thought.

The play possibilities of the various age levels should be considered all the way.

Lightweight toys in bright colors are a good bet for the youngest.

The two-to-four age group, learning to coordinate eye and muscles, can get some help from large and simple toys along the building line. Improved coordination allows more complex toys in the next level.

At the six-to-eight level, girls turn more to dolls and handicraft; boys take up scientific toys, model building, and trains.

There's a tendency to pick up hobbies in the eight-to-ten level. Weaving, drawing and embroidery are popular with girls. Boys like trains and chemical sets.

Here are a few tips for choosing toys:

1. Let's pretend is the play theme for two-to-four-year-olds and creative toys fit into it. But they should be simple to avoid strain on eyes and smaller muscles as the child develops coordination. Big blocks are good.

2. Construction and handicraft sets, not too complicated, are enjoyed in this bracket. Girls like toys with which they can imitate adult house-keeping. Boys favor industrial activity in miniature. Easy "put-together" boats are fun.

3. The report, prepared by Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, showed 25 cases of mumps to bring the total for the year to 70. There was 14 cases each of scarlet fever and chickenpox and one each of tuberculosis and venereal disease.

Nineteen births were reported in the county during the month to bring that total to 239 since Jan. 1 while 15 deaths were reported for a total of 185 so far this year.

Infancy To Two Years

Walking in the early stages of the game is a young fellow's toughest job. He probably would appreciate something to help him at the task. Toys for this age should be light and bright.

Two To Four Years

"Let's pretend" is the play theme for two-to-four-year-olds and creative toys fit into it. But they should be simple to avoid strain on eyes and smaller muscles as the child develops coordination. Big blocks are good.

Four To Six Years

Construction and handicraft sets, not too complicated, are enjoyed in this bracket. Girls like toys with which they can imitate adult house-keeping. Boys favor industrial activity in miniature. Easy "put-together" boats are fun.

Six To Eight Years

Dolls for girls, things masculine for boys, prevail in this level. There's a noticeable trend, too, toward reading and dramatic play.

Eight To Ten Years

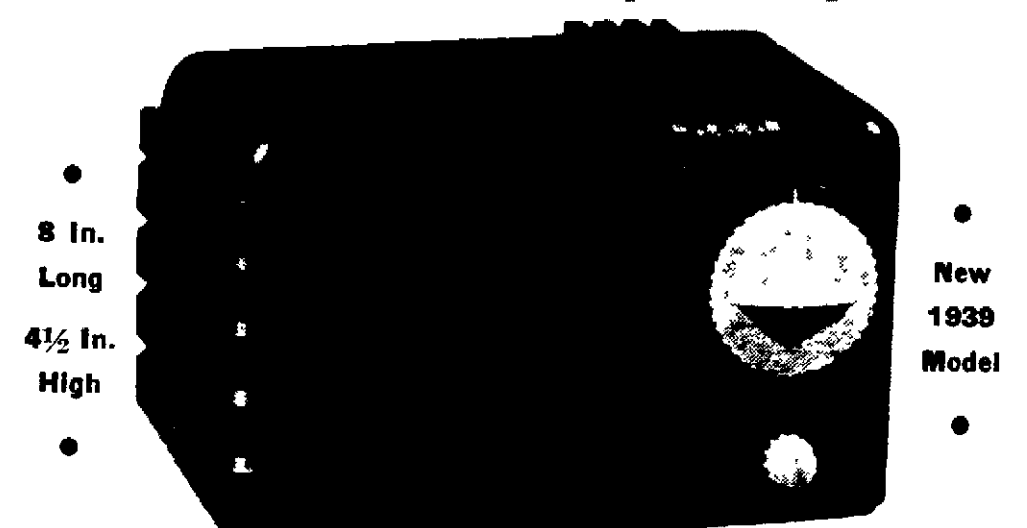

Coordination greatly advanced, children turn to hobby interests. Weaving for girls, carpentry for boys are examples.

BURNING PIMPLES HURT IN MORE WAYS THAN ONE...

FOUND GUILTY

Youth Involved in Radio Theft Case Fined, 3 Pals Freed.

Convicted in municipal court yesterday on a charge of receiving stolen property, Robert Bowman, 22, of Cleveland, was fined $100 and costs. Acting Judge Stuart H. Cramer suspended $50 of the fine.

Charges of petit larceny filed against Bowman and three companions, Joseph Schultz, 20, of Pittsburgh; Joseph Miller, 22, of Birmingham, Mich., and William Schaffner, 22 of Detroit, were dismissed for lack of evidence.

The four youths, members of a magazine sales crew were returned to Mansfield from Fremont last week where they had been arrested in connection with the theft of an automobile radio from the car of J. W. Ingraham, 30 West Third street.

The affidavit naming Bowman as the receiver of the stolen radio was drawn, police said, because he admitted buying it from another salesman who formerly was with the crew.

TWO PAPERS of widely varying topics were presented yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. H. Ford, 106 Sturges avenue, when she entertained 24 members of the Tourist club. Mrs. W. L. Parkinson presented the first paper on "Philippine Islands."

Telling of the proposals for self-government, Mrs. Parkinson told the club members that as yet it was agreed the islands were not capable of self-government and if the U. S. withdrew her support, the islands would be invaded.

Mrs. Sidney Palmer followed with a paper entitled "What Is New In Medicine and Surgery?" After comparing old and new methods of surgery, Mrs. Palmer told of the remarkable strides and advances being made including the transfer of eye tissues, treatment for heart ailments and asthma, and the serums being used for treating pneumonia. In conclusion she spoke briefly of the co-operative hospitalization and medical aid plan which is being worked out in some places.

Add Zip To Menus This Fall

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

"Get fresh" with your meals. Don't lag behind the wheels of progress. Don't concentrate on holiday meals, for every day isn't a holiday even in the holiday season.

Keep the larder fresh. Aside from stale bread used for stuffing, every item in the larder should be fresh. It's the United States which has brought freshness to the peak of perfection, thanks to our methods of refrigeration and transportation. Eggs, butter and milk, these are the accepted "fresh" things. But now we demand everything fresh, no matter the season. And with science and industry to back them, menu-makers must not fall behind the wheels of progress; meals must be as fresh as the ingredients they contain.

Zip Up Menu.

One good way to zip up the menu is to use plenty of fresh grapefruit when it is in season. Start off with grapefruit, have it as a salad or dessert, for health's sake. And serve it in various novel ways. Cooks in Florida like to broil grapefruit, and it's mighty good, too! Select smooth-skinned fruit and cut each one in half. Core and remove seeds. Loosen segments by cutting 'round them with a curved knife but do not take out membrane. Sprinkle one tablespoon brown or granulated sugar on top of each half. Dot generously with butter, and sprinkle with nutmeg, if desired. Heat through in a medium oven for 10 minutes; then place the grapefruit under broiler flame and allow to broil for seven to 10 minutes, or until delicately browned. Serve immediately.

Grapefruit meringue is another tangy dessert that is different. It calls for one-half cup cornstarch, one and one-quarter cups sugar, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one and three-quarters cups boiling water, three egg yolks, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup grapefruit juice, one teaspoon grated rind, three egg whites and six tablespoons sugar. Mix cornstarch, sugar and salt. Add boiling water, stirring to blend well. Cook 15 minutes in double boiler, stirring until thick and smooth. Beat egg yolks slightly and pour cornstarch mixture into them slowly, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler and cook for two minutes longer. Remove from stove. Add butter, grapefruit juice and rind, stirring well until blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Add sugar gradually, beating until stiff and glossy. Fold in cooled grapefruit mixture. Chill.

Banana Bavarian pie is a sweet variation of the old Bavarian pie theme. It requires a package of orange-flavored gelatin, one and one-half cups hot water, dash of salt, one-quarter cup sugar, one-half teaspoon grated orange rind, one-half cup orange juice, three-quarters cup whipping cream, one and one-half cups finely-diced ripe bananas (two or three) and one baked nine-inch pie shell. Dissolve gelatin in hot water. Add salt, sugar, orange rind and juice. Chill until cold and shiny but not stiff. Fold into gelatin. Fold in bananas. Chill until slightly thickened. Turn into pie shell.

Stick a few date pits in the pots in which your house plants are growing, or plant about one inch deep and cover with glass to start germination sooner. Seeds of oranges and grapefruit and lemons may be planted in the same way. Do not let earth dry out but water freely once or twice a week.

Lipstick stains on linens and cottons can nearly always be removed by the use of warm water and mild soap suds.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 1.

A day of confusing or mysterious adventures may be expected, judging by a rather curious or perplexing planetary configuration. It seems as if some situation may be brought into the open, the affair might be turned to good account. In all be cautious and beware of dangerous intrigue and possible misconstruction or slander. Romance may enter the social or domestic life.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves enshrouded in a year of intrigue or situations involving a rather spectacular romance. This may cause tongues to wag, especially following the revelation of some peculiar, subtle or suppressed occurrence affecting the private associations. It is not entirely sinister and gifts and pleasant things may be expected, but be cautious with correspondence or unwelcome publicity.

A child born on this day may be sympathetic, generous, friendly and high-minded.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Don't pack too many!" I adjured her. "Remember, we'll only have one small fitted bag apiece, and the small brief case with your work."

"Right you are, darling," she agreed, "and I'll be the soul of discretion. You know, I probably am the best packer in this and adjoining cities, always excepting you. I think you can get more things in less space than anybody I ever saw."

"Sez you," she mocked, and then I went out of the room to my own, and packed everything necessary for the three-day sojourn at Noel's hotel.

Mary finished her packing at almost the same moment as I did, and we met in the living room all ready for the trip.

"Let's congratulate each other, shall we?" Mary caroled when we had set our luggage down near the door.

We bowed solemnly to each other, and then giggled a bit hysterically in the manner of people facing some unknown stressful problem.

"So far, so good," I said, and Mary interrupted me quickly.

"What's next?" she queried, and then answered her own question.

"The preparation for our successful getaway, I suppose," she said, and I nodded.

"And the story we shall give the desk accounting for our absence," I added.

Her eyes were suddenly alarmed. "Surely you're not going to tell them now that we're going anywhere," she said.

"Indeed no," I told her. "We're going to take them by surprise in a few minutes by our unexpected exit. But first, we must fix up our story, and then make our getaway."

I crossed the room to Miss Whitlock's door and knocked upon it.

"Will you come into the living room, please, for a council of war?" I asked her.

"With pleasure," she responded, and waiting only for me to precede her, she crossed the room with apparently unhurried but really rapid steps, and came to a halt beside my arm chair, to the side of which, as if for support, Mary had drawn a chair.

"Please sit down," I said, and she obediently drew a chair to the other side of me, and to the front, as Mary's was, so that we formed a sort of semi-circle, and could look at each other easily.

"How soon can you be ready to leave the hotel?" I said.

She looked at me as if startled out of her usual professional composure.

"Do you mean for good?" she asked.

Today's Fashion

Evening accessories.

By VERA WINSTON

Accessories for evening have reached a new high, with dinner and evening hats very much of the smart wardrobe. The model at top is a tiny pillbox of purple quilted velvet. It is crushed down on the head by its large veil of green and purple fine mesh, and worn tied under the chin or at back of the neck. The second hat is really nothing more than a twisted band of velvet which holds the rosette of velvet bows, with pert, little upstanding ends. It is for formal wear, an amusing trifle. Another note is the stylized feather of black chenille that is attached to a gold hair pin or comb. A tiny muff bag in black metal angel-skin, corded, has two bunches of tinsel flowers posed at top. A zipper conceals the pocket-book section.

Sloppiness Wrecks Romance

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX (One In a Series)

Unless you have a "martyr-complex" there is no reason for you to be sloppy. Every man is embarrassed at being seen with a slovenly woman. For one thing, if she is his wife, her appearance may be charged to his stinginess or his inactivity. Whatever the cause, his reaction is that of mortification.

Slovenliness is an open confession of failure. A man expects his date to be a showcase from which he reflects credit on his ability to pick a beauty. The human showcase need not be extravagantly decked. Rather dangerous, that, if the boy friend is thrifty for the expensive vision will evoke the wraith of bills, duns, collectors.

In the matter of hair, these days, we are certainly trying to outdo those becoming barrister wigs, affected by English lawyers. But let us not forget the humble hairbrush and its mission.

The shortest cut of all to rank unpopularity is to be a sloppy smoker, to scatter ashes and leave lighted cigarettes on pieces of furniture, tablecloths, pianos and dressers or to use your hostess' highly prized bric-a-brac as an ash tray.

Sliced tomatoes dipped in grated cheese, placed on toast and browned in a moderate oven are delicious snacks to serve with coffee.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay "The Authority on Authorities"

WATCH THE LIGHTS

Just as a good automobile chauffeur watches the lights in order to govern his driving safely, so must a declarer heed the indications given him by the defenders. A double can tell him that certain finesses are bound to fail and that he will have to build other means of making his contract.

North began the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade. South bid 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades, South 4-Hearts, North 5-Hearts, South 6-Diamonds and North 7-Hearts, which East doubled.

In response to the double, West led the spade 6, which declarer won with dummy's A. He then ruffed a spade in an endeavor to set up the fifth card of that suit to provide a spot for his losing club. A trump was then led to the Q and another spade ruffed. When it developed that East held as many spades as dummy, declarer had to resort to other tactics to make his contract, so he decided to try for a squeeze. He led out all of his hearts and the diamond A, and forced East to unguard his club stopper in his endeavor to protect the spade suit. Then when clubs were led, East had to toss his spades, so that declarer was able to take 13 tricks.

What defense may defeat South's 5-Diamond contract?

Cactus plants need extra good drainage and porous material around the roots. Cinders are excellent for drainage and used with potash insure abundant blossoming. Fill a five-inch flower pot within an inch of the top with coarse cinders. Plant cactus or leaf cutting in the cinders, not more than an inch below the surface. When buds appear feed plants each week with one-half cup of solution made with one teaspoon of potash in a gallon of water until blossoms appear.

Exercise Helps Pep Up Spirits

By MME. QUI VIVE.

Cushion sitters, girls who motor and never walk, women who can scarcely bear to lift an eyebrow because it requires an effort of the muscles can expect to have their fill of beauty griefs. The human body was a law of life. Without it evidence of advanced years will come before their time.

By stretching, twisting, running, lifting heavy objects the tissues and muscles get a certain amount of kneading and pressure. The blood streams pick up the debris, carries it to the avenue of elimination: the skin, kidneys, lungs, liver and intestinal tract.

Make some experiments of your own. Suppose the day is dark and dismal. You have no desire to do anything. Neither work nor pastimes seem to offer anything in the way of interest. You putter around the house, side step whatever tasks may face you. You read a bit, listen to the radio, glance at the headlines in the paper. By and by you feel sorry for yourself. You're bored. Your nerves bother you. Poisons are working.

Put on your outdoor rags, get out and hoof it. Start at a brisk pace. Life takes on a pleasanter appearance. All is well. You'll sit down to your dinner with appetite and in a cheerful frame of mind.

There's no need of doing exhaustive exercises. Sit erect in a chair, hands at the sides doubled tight. Bring the hands up above your head with strong muscular effort and enjoy a sense of exhilaration.

When the hands are lifted try to pull yourself apart at the waistline, turn the torso from side to side. There will be a tension of all the muscles from hips and abdomen to shoulders, chest, even to the littlest fingers.

CHAPTER 10

"I won't tell. I didn't mean I actually hate her. I don't believe in hating anybody. But I've got some sense, I hope, and I've met this girl once and I know a lot about her already, and one of the boys who is courting me used to be in love with her and she is still in love with him, and—oh, it's the most complicated thing!"

Roxie sighed elaborately. "I should say it! Goodness! But aren't you just thrilled with it all? I mean, isn't it all fun? Goodness, Sara, at least you don't have to wash baby bottles and change diapers and worry about crump! Crump is the most unromantic disease, Sara Sue!"

They laughed together gaily. Even young Bounce, sitting high on a kitchen stool and pillows in lieu of a high chair, contributed some laughter, spraying the girls and the table with most unromantic partly-chewed food.

"What will you do, though, honey? You've got to be fair to everybody. Yourself included." "I am not in love with any of them," Sara Sue declared. "I wish they weren't in love with me, or didn't imagine they were. There's two — you won't tell, Rox? — and both are dear, Bob Towne is positively —"

"The football hero?" Roxie jabbed a spoon at her.

"Yes. And the cutest freshman."

but he's so —

"If it's that Bob Towne," Roxie interrupted, "then the other girl is Peaches Pomeroy, my darling! So there! Don't forget I went to Rice, and keep up with all the gossip."

That deduction, too correct, evoked more talk. More heart talk between good friends. Roxie promised to keep it confidential, and Sara Sue Davis was not shallow, nor dishonest in any selfish way. When Roxie had to go home, Sara Sue was a different person, though. She had gotten away from the crowd for a while, and been intimate with a trustworthy friend. She had talked. She had regained strength and poise from that friend.

The faculty meeting of the Rice Institute was called to order at 4 p. m.

First item of business: "Mr. Sam Konomos requests permission to speak to the faculty, sir."

President Edgar Odell Lovett of the Rice Institute looked at his secretary.

"Konomos?"

"Yes, Dr. Lovett. He is proprietor, I believe, of the Houston Inn, located across Rice boulevard from the campus."

"Um. Well, it is in no way connected with the university, but conceivably Mr. Konomos has legitimate business here. Ask him to come in, please."

Mr. Konomos would have been completely in atmosphere inside a prize fight ring. Indeed, he had once been a prize fighter. He weighed 205 pounds, and he was hairy, and his skin was dark, and his nose was flat, which caused him to wheeze a trifle. He smelled a little of alcohol and cheese.

On the other hand, the faculty chamber in the Rice administration building is one of the most beautiful rooms in Texas.

"It is an honor to welcome you, Mr. Konomos," said Dr. Lovett, who is about the most gracious gentleman imaginable. "Will you have this seat, sir?" He indicated a chair, and Sam slid into it, wheezing, glancing right and left. "I ain't got too much time," Sam began.

"Quite so, sir. We shall endeavor to move swiftly. Proceed."

"It's about this widow, this Davis. She's ruin my business."

"Nobody said anything to that."

"She's take all the trade," Sam went on. He turned to glare at the professors, instructors and assistants. "She come here with soft soap. She put up the fresh sign. She make love with everybody, ha! She is ruin my business, this romance house!" Sam's muscles bulged noticeably and he got up excitedly. "I have been in business three year. Is not fair she cut in!"

There was much more talk, with some questions from the faculty. Nobody voiced an opinion, however, until Mr. Konomos departed.

"So far as I am concerned," one faculty member spoke out then, "I cannot see that it is any affair of ours. But personally I can testify that the Houston Inn is anything but savory in reputation. I hope she puts him out of business!"

Applause, and smiles, closed the discussion.

Next item of business: Report from Mr. James Britt, football coach.

"I have nothing unusual at this time, gentlemen," said Coach Jimmy, who had just come in. "The squad seem to be progressing nicely. You are already aware of the high interest in football this fall. I am doing everything possible to stress scholarship, as we previously agreed here. If any of my lads show signs of falling down in studies, please let me know promptly and I will take up the matter individually. The team morale seems to be exceptionally good. For one thing, I am getting some valuable co-operation from a person who, it appears, has a rather remarkable personality and influence. It is a Mrs. Davis, a widowed lady, of whom you may have heard elsewhere. She operates a new, ah—service, across Main street. I find her quite a help, when I had feared she might be a distraction."

"Um. Thank you, Jimmy," said Dr. Lovett. "Please meet with us as often as you can."

Next item of business: "The faculty is herewith presented with a brief written report from Mr. Wasson, the dormitory manager," said Dr. Lovett's secretary. "It reads as follows:

"My records for the week show all rooms occupied, three illnesses of which one required hospitalization, and disbursements of $84.75 for supplies and repairs, in voices attached. This is exclusive of the mess hall."

"The general survey indicates however, some minor disturbances are resulting from students trading in memberships in a new social club. Demand for these memberships, which seem to be limited in number, apparently is very great. Memberships which cost $3 initially have sold for as high as $30 in a few cases, I learned. I will make further investigation, if you so request."

"Respectfully submitted," "JACOB WASSON."

The dean of the institute arose from his chair at this point. "I move you, sir," he addressed the president, "that Mr. Wasson and the student government counsel be asked to meet at once with a faculty committee to investigate this matter. As you well know, Rice has maintained strict taboo on fraternities, sororities and such social clubs as function in a secret manner, tending to destroy the freedom and democracy we have cherished here. Perhaps it is just some of the new students, not acquainted with our traditions, however, so I think there is no cause for hasty action."

At that juncture Loren Dall Rogers, Ph. D., took the floor. Dr. Rogers, instructor in English literature, was smiling.

"I think I can allay the dean's fears," he announced. "I happen to room in the faculty tower myself, near the students. This 'club' to which Mr. Wasson refers is no threatened secret order, nor fraternity. It is simply the same one already mentioned—the Cottage club, organized by one, Mrs. Sara Sue Davis—who resides across Main boulevard. I have heard innumerable discussion of it in the dormitories. I think the matter will evolve its own solution satisfactorily, but I shall be glad to look into it and report further here."

Smiling, grimacing and scowling by turns, Robert Irwin is pictured shortly after entering Sing Sing prison to begin a sentence of 139 years for the murder of Veronica Gedeon, her mother and Frank Byrnes, a roomer in the Gedeon home in New York.

Quick Relief from Pile Irritation

Does Your Breath Broadcast— "I WEAR FALSE TEETH"?

Play Safe—Be Sure—Use Polident

Most people who wear plates or bridges suffer from a special kind of bad breath. Dentists call it "denture breath."

You won't know if you have it—until it can spoil your happiness. Friends will shun you—people avoid you! And the worst of it is that ordinary brushing cannot prevent it. Neither will mouth washes. For the odor comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum soaks up germs and decay bacteria and causes a vile odor that you cannot detect.

One thing can stop "denture breath"—and that's Polident. This new brushless cleaner has won the approval of thousands of dentists. Users say it's a blessing. Polident not only purifies false teeth—but also removes all stain, tarnish and deposits. Makes breath sweeter—plates look better and feel better. Costs only 30¢—any drug store and lasts for many weeks. Money back if not delighted.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic! Add a little Polident powder to glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes. Rinse—and it's sweet and purified—ready to use!

CAN YOU EAT POTATOES, MEAT, FRUITS OR BEANS?

World's Tonic User Tears Up His Diet List

Found All Sorts of Food Disagreed When Occasional Constipation Was Present

When you were a child your parents may have told you that you should, "Eat to live" and not "Live to eat." Of course we all have to eat and mealtime should be an occasion of pleasure, but when you have digestive trouble and suffer distress after meals, something is wrong. Nature says we must eat and Nature never intended that we should be punished for obeying her. Some form of carelessness has caused an interference of Nature's plans and this could be constipation.

This is what happened to Mr. Charles Gardner of 441 Summer St., Akron, O. "For years I tried one medicine after another trying to get some kind of relief, but I'm going to stick with World's Tonic because I feel so much better after such a short time that I'm sure this is just what I've been looking for. I always had to be very careful about food. Most of it would lie in my stomach heavy as lead. I'd have a burning feeling and a bad taste, sometimes a terrible feeling of cramps. Bad bowels made me strain which caused an irritated piles condition and my abdomen was sore all over. "I couldn't drink coffee, couldn't eat potatoes, meat, fruit, beans, or cabbage without paying the bill with spells of indigestion afterwards. I'm awfully glad I found World's Tonic because the amazing relief from constipation is fast repairing all the former damages it caused and I can eat or drink practically anything I want. All the other related conditions are improving nicely since I am having a free easy bowel action daily without straining."

It's not too late, that my kidneys feel in much better shape since taking World's Tonic and as for foods, well, I've torn up my diet list. The makers of this famous medicine reach into various parts of the old countries for much of its roots and herbs compound, seeking for you the strength and health of your foreign born ancestors. Get World's Tonic at Central and all other progressive Drug Stores. (E 29)—Adv.

He Thinks Life In Pen's Funny!

item of business so far has centered around, or at least led up to, some consideration of this Davis woman? Lady, perhaps I should say; I do not know her. I understand she is a widow. One of you mentioned that she is red haired, although what significance that holds in these discussions, I cannot see. But it is true that an entire faculty session must be given over to a young lady in no way connected with this university?

A youngish looking professor, wearing horn-rimmed spectacles, took the floor.

"Mr. President!"

"Dr. Holgate," the chairman acknowledged him.

"I, of course, lament the crowded condition of our business calendar this afternoon, but I do wish to declare, emphatically, that Mrs. Davis is a most estimable young woman, and one, I think, of extraordinary."

After considerable further discussion, the faculty meeting of the Rice Institute adjourned at 6 p. m.
